

Clearpack at Propak Asia 2016: Day 1

Walking through the main door of the Bangkok International Trade and Exhibition Center, the Clearpack logo can be seen prominently atop our stand. Today was the first day of Propak Asia 2016, and it was a busy day with a strong showing for the exhibition. We had representatives and machines from many of our suppliers, and many potential customers stopped by to learn more about the machine and consider packaging solutions.

One of the newest machines on display was a loop of inspection machines from E2M, a Spanish manufacturer. They make machines with artificial vision that can check the fill-level, label alignment, capping, orientation, label text, print quality and colour to reject defective pieces or sort into lanes.

We also had the Inever MVA800 on display, a multilane sachet machine. It had very high interest and was in fact sold at Propak itself today!

Other machines on display included the FLTechnics 2.2, a premade pouch horizontal form fill seal machine, and the Marden Edwards Evo Fold overwrapping machine.

We had a great day full of enquiries and new contacts and we can't wait for Day 2!
